We invite you to explore the challenges and opportunities for the Church of England in Suffolk.

Our theme, "Together, We Are the Church of England Suffolk," reminds us that the Church is not a distant institution — it is the people, the congregations, and the communities that make up our diocese. Each one of us plays a vital role in shaping its future.

Opportunities

2024 presented exciting opportunities for growth, outreach, and renewal. From engaging more deeply with our local communities to expanding our efforts in social justice, education, and environmental stewardship, there are countless ways we have and can make a meaningful impact. Our new learning and resource hub 'Insight' will ensure we continue to grow our knowledge together and ensure we deepen our faith. Click here to explore 'Insight'.

We are connecting with younger generations through developing our chaplaincy offering in schools and growing children, families and youth ministries. We are already working in partnerships with local organisations which has offered us fresh pathways for collaboration and service in our communities.

Challenges

At the same time, we were mindful of the challenges we faced. Declining church attendance, financial pressures, and the ongoing recovery from the pandemic required us to adapt and innovate. We also confronted societal issues affecting our local communities, from loneliness and mental health to poverty and inequality. Together, we rose to these challenges with faith, resilience, and a commitment to care for the vulnerable and build a more inclusive church.

As we look ahead, we remain confident that by coming together, we will continue to navigate these challenges and embrace the opportunities that lay before us.

United in purpose, guided by our faith, and strengthened by our communities we must balance worship and service to shape the future of our church.

Thank you for being part of this journey. Together we are the Church of England in Suffolk.

Our strategic vision is a response to the unique needs of the county in which God has called us to be his Church.

Suffolk comprises four distinct missional contexts: rural villages, urban populations, market towns and coastal communities.

Each setting requires a different approach from sensitive and discerning leadership. And yet we are united by a common goal: growth.

We call our strategic vision Growing in God, and across our four missional contexts, we are earnestly praying and seeking to Grow in Depth, Influence, Number and Younger.

Every parish and new worshipping community throughout the Diocese has been asked to engage in Growing in God, and it has been a joy to see imaginative and ambitious Plans for Growth emerging, naming our hopes and setting our priorities for fruitful mission and evangelism across our county. A designated Growth Fund has helped to resource new and innovative ideas across our churches.

Our vision has also attracted significant investment from the national Church over recent years, resulting in two large-scale mission projects: Inspiring Ipswich, focussing on our largest town and home to a quarter of Suffolk's population, and Growing in God in the Countryside. For more information see page 19. As a result, we have nurtured pioneers and church-planters in a range of contexts.

Growing in God has been successful in large part due to the personal involvement of our bishops, and the support of our strong Mission and Ministry team which runs a ministry development programme for leaders and a formational community for church planters and pioneers. The Auxiliary Ordination Pathway (AOP) has been effective in identifying, training and releasing ordained ministers to serve in their own local parishes.

So much has been accomplished and yet there is so much still to do.

Our Growing in God prayer

O Lord, our God,
giver of life and growth,
grow in us a longing for you,
that we might deepen our faith;

grow in us a compassion
for your world,
that we might serve
our neighbours;

grow in us a vision for your Kingdom,
that we might proclaim your love.

By the power of your Spirit,
and in Jesus' name.

Amen

TOGETHER WE ARE GROWING

To deepen our awareness of God with us through prayer and vibrant worship, centring our lives on Jesus Christ through the proclamation of the Word and the celebration of the Eucharist.

Growth is nothing without deep roots

At St Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich there is a strong focus on depth which has enabled record numbers of baptism and confirmations over the last three years following the arrival of their current Vicar. Growth in depth happens across all ages of the church. Choristers attend weekly discipleship sessions as part of their rehearsals. There they look at the Sunday's readings, discuss and explore the Christian life, and each term have a chance to 'grill the Vicar'.

For adults, every Lent, alongside the usual Lent Course, there is a themed sermon and seminar series with visiting preachers. Alongside this there is a fortnightly Pub Theology and the newly instituted autumn Tower Talks on faith in public life.

Growing in Depth with group Bible studies

St John's Church, Elmswell, is growing in depth through Bible studies. A group of 14 people have joined St John's Church community in the last two years to study the Bible with the Rector in small groups. Many of the people attending are families with children. The church hosted a family social gathering to encourage fellowship and bonding with one another and a total of 26 people took part – 24 of which have joined the church congregation in the last two years, 14 of which were children and four were families new to the Christian faith.

The gathering was a great success, and those whom attended are looking forward to the next one!

Growing Youth Work

"I have recently been licensed as a Youth Minister, having completed the Youthscape Essentials course, which covered insights into the issues for young people, developing youthwork skills and characteristics for leadership.

I love the variety of the role I have now. From leading Junior Church on a Sunday to Youth Hub on a Thursday. I have built contacts with the high schools, attended Christian Union and I'm exploring the possibility of chaplaincy. I mentor some of our young leaders and together we've started a pop-up game café in the school holidays.

Our musical venture, a youth choir, called Joy Collective! a youth choir, recently performed at our Mothering Sunday service and is growing in number. I mentor and support those that need it and walk alongside young people, helping them become closer to God. Serving young people is a joy and a privilege and seeing these young people growing in confidence and faith is an honour."

KATE CRACKNELL

Safe Harbour supports people with complex needs

Lightwave group Save Harbour, held in St Helen's Church, Ipswich, is a refuge for those facing life's complex challenges. It was opened in 2021 with the aim of helping people to turn their lives around and was seen as a community for 'people who have been battered and bruised by the storms of life.'

Safe Harbour offers food, warmth and hospitality to those who need it – not least those who are isolated or alone, those struggling with addictions, those navigating physical or mental health challenges, those in economic straits or facing other difficulties.

It provides a safe, loving, Christian community accessible to all and is flourishing, making a real difference to those who are involved.

"Safe Harbour is for those who are travelling through the storms of life. We are like a lifeboat station that aims to help those in need by welcoming them into a safe community through sharing meals and sharing the good news, that Jesus loves us and wants to journey with us,"

BOB HAMILTON
Leader of Safe Harbour Church

Church tackling food poverty attracts huge support

Pop-Up events were started by St Mary's Church, Hadleigh, to promote a community spirit for those struggling. The events offer a warm space for residents and villagers finding it difficult to pay for soaring energy costs or have a hot meal. The majority of attendees come from Hadleigh, however some people travel to the town and events are also supported by Ukrainians and military families.

"In 2023, due to the positive response to the Pop-Ups and because of our ongoing concern as a church about food poverty, economic challenges, soaring energy costs, and social isolation, we expanded the Pop-Ups to make this event more accessible to the wider community."

MARYLOU DELFGOU,
Volunteer and a Lay Elder

In the previous 12 months, 32 Pop-Ups have been held with attendances ranging from 55 to 148, averaging 96 a session.

Felixstowe churches working to end holiday hunger

Churches in Felixstowe have provided hundreds of free packed lunches for families in need over the summer holidays. The 'Food for All' project, founded by Churches Together in Felixstowe and overseen by St John the Baptist Church, has seen venues across the seaside town offer hot and cold food to families in need - feeding more than 50 people every weekday of the summer holidays.

"It's unbelievable the work they do here, they do such a fantastic job. People are finding it very difficult – there are more people in need than ever before. It is not means tested and is open to all, people can come here anonymously and simply collect their packed lunches – it is extremely well co-ordinated."

AMANDA FOLLEY
Town and District Councillor, church volunteer

To witness to the person and way of Jesus Christ in word and worship, in service and daily life, inviting others into the fullness of life found in him.

Church's online presence has helped it grow at a record rate

Seventeen men and women were confirmed at St Mary's Church, in Haverhill: the most in a single confirmation service for 34 years.

"One of the things I am really pleased about is that we have some candidates who have come through from our missional activity on a Friday. We run a whole day of activities on a Friday which includes a coffee morning, informal worship at lunchtime, a community hub for a local charity in the afternoon and a hot meal for families in the evening.

Another strength is our online presence, which has attracted people in the local area. It gives people the option to engage in worship in a way that helps them to encounter God. Many people don't choose one or the other, but use both online and in person worship at different times."

THE REVD MAX DRINKWATER

Church plant reaches out to people in the community

How do you build a church without a church building? Pop a gazebo up in your front garden of course! Lindbergh Road Community Church (LRCC) was formed in the Priory Heath Estate in Ipswich and currently the church, a gazebo in the Revd Ian Daniels' front garden, has a regular congregation of 20 – 30 people every Sunday with many others involved in related activities. The church vision is a thriving church for the estate - offering an open door to those in the community who want to journey with them in faith.

The Priory Heath estate is in the bottom 10% of deprivation in Suffolk and there have been recent stabbings in the area relating to drug related crimes.

The gazebo is a visible presence in the estate and people happen to come across it and stop to chat. Some people donated funds and they bought heaters, urns and a few more mugs and the church has grown from there. The church offers discipleship as a journey. People can share thoughts, have discussions, talk about a Bible passage and essentially enjoy being together and learning together. Those who come age from a five year old to an 85+ year old. The congregation is totally intergenerational, and diverse in many ways including neurodiversity.

Leading your Church into Growth comes to Suffolk

In July 2024 nearly 100 people came together to make a real difference in their local churches. The three-day conference offered practical help to partner with God and inspire church leaders to lead their church(es) into growth. The focus was on the importance of prayer and participants were encouraged to understand the impact of personal contact and having pathways to invite people to church activities.

"We brought with us a person from our congregation who is new to faith, having only been confirmed this year. It was amazing to see this person grow in their faith over the course of the weekend. On Friday they were very uncomfortable about the concept of evangelism and mission, by the end when we had made the 'plan for growth,' they said 'Well clearly we need to start by praying and asking God what he wants us to do'. It was deeply encouraging to see how the conference had given them the opportunity to dive deeper into faith and grow."

MARY BROWN

To engage rising generations, allowing them to shape the Church and investing in them as ministers of the gospel, and to develop our congregations to reflect the age profile of their local contexts.

Church building to become a community hub

All Saints' Church, Stanton, near Bury St Edmunds, is throwing open its doors to the community by taking out some of its traditional pews to create a flexible space for other activities.

With a £200,000 redevelopment project, the church is disposing of 21 old Markham pews and replacing them with wooden chairs to create a welcoming, warm and wonderful space at the heart of their community, one that is open and accessible to everyone. The aim is to make the building as hospitable and as friendly as possible with local people taking ownership of their church.

The church hosts a Men's Breakfast once a month and teenagers already use the building as a warm space after school and at weekends. The church hope to provide an after-school 'drop in' for them, offering toast and tea/hot chocolate etc so they can start their homework, play board games and socialise in a safe space before going home.

Improving rural life for young people

Church Leaders and volunteers are organising a new club to tackle issues of rural isolation faced by young teenagers - offering socialisation and friendship in a safe environment.

The Rural Youth Cafe at Hoxne Pavilion, near Diss, was formed by the Hoxne Benefice to expand their activities within the community. The rural youth club, which started in January, is meeting monthly for two hours on a Friday evening where food, table football, pool, board games and creative activities are organised.

"We believe the café offers a safe space for young people to come together and relax, in a very rural area of Suffolk where there are relatively few opportunities for teenagers. As a benefice, we want to support children and families"

THE REVD CANON ELEANOR GOODISON
Priest in Charge

Although the youth club is still in its infancy it has already found favour with young people.

Weekly Food Bank, Youth Activities and Well-Being Café

St Thomas The Apostle church in Ipswich has a food bank every week, helping up to 50 people with 12 volunteers. They also hold youth activities weekly for up to 30 young people aged 11 to 19 years old, and have a weekly well-being café where people can drop in for support every Thursday.

"After spending only a short time with the team, I could so clearly see how passionate they are about caring for people of all ages and backgrounds in and around their church community and, in particular, how much their group of young people value being a part of church activities. The team are really listening to try to understand the challenges and provide a stimulating and safe space for young people to be. It's precious work and brings stability and much needed hope to often fragile lives that are really only just beginning."

TOGETHER WE ARE 443 PARISH COMMUNITIES

Our Vision for Growth is set against a backdrop of significant challenges and opportunities in the life of the Church and the county as a whole.

A population growing – and growing older

Like much of the East of England, the population of the Diocese is growing faster than the national average. Suffolk’s population, 768,555 in 2022, is projected to increase by 8% in the next 20 years. But the number of older people (65 and above) is set to increase by 38%, accounting for nearly one in three people. This will have a significant impact on our workforce, our economy, and the demands on public services, especially health and social care. See Appendix three.

Some concerning health and wellbeing trends

Because of the aging population, conditions such as heart disease and diabetes, dementia and other age-related issues are set to become more prevalent here in Suffolk, and with them unprecedented stress on the care sector. Mental health issues, particularly among younger people and adults, are higher in Suffolk than nationally. For example, hospital admissions as a result of self-harm among those aged 10 to 24 are statistically significantly higher than national levels, and show a concerning upwards trend. New models of health and care are needed. See Appendix three.

“ The Suffolk Community Foundation plays a central role in the county of identifying needs in our many communities, and convening partnerships across the Voluntary, Community, Faith and Social Enterprise Sector to help deliver solutions. Working together in positive partnership is essential if we are to overcome long standing issues of deprivation as well as more recent issues arising from Covid.

The Diocese has a vital role to play at all levels and we look forward to continuing our collaboration following the new appointment.”

GEORGE VESTEY
Chair, Suffolk Community Foundation

Inequalities and hidden poverty

Our Diocese is largely rural - more than 40% of our population lives in rural areas – and Suffolk has 50 miles of coastline with coastal towns both large and small. Though these include some highly desirable places to live, these communities often mask stark inequalities and serious issues of deprivation and isolation.

Suffolk is not amongst the most deprived local authorities in England. But the Diocese includes 12 areas in the 10% most-deprived areas in England, and 28 areas in the 11-20% bracket. Over 7,000 families and individuals use food banks each month in Suffolk – and this is believed to be a significant under-estimate. In short, relative deprivation levels have risen in Suffolk in recent years but much of this deprivation is hidden. Find out more at the Suffolk Hidden Needs Report.

You can also see some of this report at Appendix four.

The changing face of rural communities

The past decade has brought major new housing developments to the county, with this investment set to continue. Unless the Church takes account of this trend in its future planning, opportunities will be missed with consequences for our long-term sustainability, profile and impact in the county.

The emergence of major new housing developments will eclipse the historic, largely rural pattern of parish settings, changing the character and creating tensions between inherited expectations and future needs.

A Chaplain has been appointed to the Sizewell C plant on the Suffolk coast between Aldeburgh and Southwold. This major national energy project will bring new jobs and investment to the region. However it will also place strain on local infrastructure and create tensions with local communities.

Eco-friendly Suffolk church wins gold

All Saints' Church, Mendham, is the first within the Diocese of St Edmundsbury and Ipswich to achieve gold eco status from the A Rocha scheme. A Rocha recognises churches which are helping the environment in worship and teaching, buildings, land, community and global engagement and lifestyle and marks the Church's plans to analyse and reduce the Church's carbon footprint and manage land according to an environmentally friendly plan.

"Our Eco church journey began as we went into lockdown but now has become an integrated part of all we stand for and do. Our more recent actions have included equipping the church with all LED bulbs, promoting plastic-free July with the local school, hosting a fayre to promote local products, including farms and developing opportunities to use the churchyard for worship, reflection and to improve people's well-being. We also e-twinned the toilet with Uganda helping a community to build their own basic toilet, access clean water and learn about hygiene."

THE REVD DIANE EKINS POWELL

The churchyard has become a haven for residents and visitors alike to walk in and watch the birds, and primary school children also helped create a bug and hedgehog hotels and put up bird feeders.

Diane, a former headteacher at Ranelagh Primary School, Ipswich, added that the award would enable the church to share its values with others, share what it had learned and that small actions could make a difference.

The environment and becoming carbon neutral

With the national Church, we have committed ourselves to work with all available resources towards Net Zero Carbon by 2030, but this will mean difficult decisions ahead.

We are in the process of drawing up and implementing a programme of feasible actions such as improving the energy efficiency of our offices and clergy housing and facilitating energy audits for churches. Inspiring and committed leadership will be required to hit this ambitious target.

 Discover more here in our Environment film

Decline in attendance and participation

Though recent figures offer some encouraging signs in worshipping numbers, the overall picture is one of decline in attendance and participation, in common with the rest of the Church of England.

Renewing our existing worshipping communities and starting vibrant new Fresh Expressions and church plants is at the heart of our vision to address this and we are making progress. Our nationally-funded mission projects, Inspiring Ipswich and Growing in God in the Countryside, are making a measurable difference but as their funding comes to an end, there are big challenges around consolidating our growth and integrating what has been learned.

We are greatly encouraged by the interest from clergy and local leadership teams in the Leading your Church into Growth (LyCiG) programme which is being rolled out throughout Suffolk over the next three years.

“ The Church is still so valued and respected.”

LIZ NICE
Editor, East Anglian Daily Times

The absence of young people and children

Few churches in our Diocese have thriving children's and youth ministries: some have none at all. And our vision for growing younger is set against a backdrop of a projected 4% decline in the number of children and young people in Suffolk.

Despite this, we are fully committed to Growing Younger congregations and we seek a Bishop who will champion growth and change, signs of which are breaking through in the growth of Messy Church (successful throughout Suffolk, especially Ipswich), schools chaplaincy (often in association with partners such as Christian Youth Ministries) and early years projects such as the soon-to-be launched Perfect Peace.

Maintaining our clergy and ministry teams

In recent years we have been successful in our goals to maintain the number of stipendiary clergy posts, sometimes through redeployment. Funding support from the National Church has meant we have even been able to grow clergy numbers in some areas in the last five years. But as this funding comes to an end, the Diocese will be faced with the challenge of sustaining the number of posts.

We have also increasing the number of self-supporting clergy, and increased the number of Licensed Lay Ministers and Lay Elders. Our Diocesan Investment Programme Funding supports vital ministerial development for our clergy in incumbent and similar roles.

The Growing Leaders programme, aimed at building vision and capacity to lead local initiatives, is currently in its fourth cohort in Ipswich and is being rolled out into other areas.

Reaching out to families in our communities

“‘Emerge’ is working alongside established churches with people of all ages who are currently outside church. We also work with a local charity, ‘Just 42’, to lead a CU at the local High School and a village youth club. We lead Sunday worship at Playford Village Hall with a few families joining us. Recent events included a Seed Swap (inspired by a growers’ group in the village) and a Pancake Party.

We also have a few mid-week Lightwave groups or mission initiatives. Little Bealings Borrowers is a wildlife after-school group working in Little Bealings churchyard, set up in partnership with East Suffolk Community Partnership and Little Bealings Church. Our strapline is ‘Do something small to be part of something big’. We’re helping children and their families to see that caring for the natural world begins in a small way - on our doorstep, near our home or school. Recently we built a den in the wild area, collected and identified wildflower seeds and did a bioblitz to see the variety of invertebrates living in the churchyard. Each week we reflect on the beauty of nature, God the creator and his creation.”

BEN WALE
Lightwave Hub Leader

Giving and our financial sustainability

The annual budget for the Diocese is around £10m, and we depend on Parish Share to raise circa 80% of this sum. In general our finances are stable, with Parish Share almost back to pre-pandemic levels, but this is due to a higher level of stipendiary clergy vacancies and only workable in the short-term.

The traditional model across the Church of England, (which has been described as 'asking more and more from fewer and fewer') is not sustainable. Our Diocese has very limited investment and glebe income compared to some of our neighbours, and so we need to grow our funding base both through innovative approaches such as social enterprise ventures, as well as engaging local communities more directly in support of their local church.

Grappling with the issue of buildings and land

Proportionately, the Diocese has a higher than average number of church buildings. There are 481 church buildings in our Diocese, five of which are closed or not used for worship. Of the 476 functioning church buildings, a higher than average number are Grade I or Grade II* listed (95.6%). Each is a priceless asset treasured by their congregation as a place of worship and holds the possibility for community benefit in a variety of additional ways – many are currently under-utilised. Some are the only church – or the only shared community space – for miles around.

We need new and intelligent approaches to enable church buildings with dwindling congregations to become sustainable. We are also seeking the optimal use of the limited church land and property held by the Diocese.

“ The best community work is done when organisations come together around shared goals. This is exactly what happens in Suffolk and when our county is truly at its best.”

NICOLA BEACH
Chief Executive Officer, Suffolk County Council

Listening and learning across the Diocese

With so many small worshipping communities spread throughout the county, maintaining good communications to and from the Bishops and Diocesan Office can be difficult. There is real work to be done to enable mutual listening, sharing of vision, and learning from one another in an attitude of encouragement, service and support.

The Prayers of Love and Faith

The Living in Love and Faith process has exposed differences across the Church of England, including in our own Diocese. The proposals currently being considered by General Synod continue to divide those for whom they have not gone far enough, and those for whom they have gone too far.

Insight - learning and resource website

Insight is being developed by the Diocese as a learning and development tool to deepen our awareness of God as we grow together and learn together. It is designed to encourage continued engagement in our provision of resources, events and courses. Users can create their own Learning Plans by choosing topics of interest, access content relevant to specific Diocesan roles and will be able to manage their own educational journeys. Becoming a Priest on the Auxiliary Ordination Pathway

“I followed the Auxiliary Ordination Pathway which I loved. I never would have managed going to theological college, so this programme really worked for me, not least because I still need to work part-time.

We spent one evening a fortnight with the Bishops learning about what we were committing to in the vows we would take at our ordination, as well as many other topics. We also attended training modules that fed us with additional knowledge on a range of subjects such as the Old and New Testaments, Worship, Preaching, Ethics, Pastoral Ministry and Doctrine.

I learnt so much about the different workings of the Church of England, as my rural parish has always been a very ‘low’ church and I had never known anything different. Our cohort worked closely to support each other, and we also had fun along the way!

One of the big bonuses for me is that I grew up here in the local village and I know so many people, I attended the local schools and I really do feel an affinity with them. I hope that I make some difference to my benefice. My prayer is that the Lord will use me to truly serve him here amongst these wonderful people in our little corner of Suffolk so that many can come to see Jesus for themselves.”

THE REVD SARAH LOCK
Assistant Curate (SSM)

“The facets of a 21st century church leader - working to support every one of the varied aspects of the community. Connecting both the urban and the rural communities within Suffolk. Sometimes that leadership is highly visible, at other times it is kept low-key. The wide-ranging nature of today’s church leaders might surprise some people - but it is a vital component of our society.”

TERRY HUNT DL
Chairman of Ipswich Vision and Inspire Suffolk

TOGETHER WE ARE
A POPULATION OF 684,000

The Diocese of St Edmundsbury and Ipswich covers the county of Suffolk (excluding the area around Lowestoft in the north-east) and including one parish in Essex.

A rich and diverse county

It is a mainly rural Diocese, encompassing a large number of small villages, seaside resorts and market towns such as Haverhill, Beccles and Eye. It also includes the cathedral town of Bury St Edmunds with its historic Abbey.

The county town of Ipswich is home to more than a quarter of Suffolk's population, a recently promoted Premier League football team, and the well-regarded University of Suffolk.

Also within our borders are historic places of interest such as Sutton Hoo, the world-renowned cultural destinations at Snape Maltings and Aldeburgh, and the Heritage coast, a haven for lovers of natural history and birdlife.

What we do for a living

Suffolk's agricultural landscape reflects the foundation of a rural economy that has had a significant role in shaping not just the landscape but our culture and values over many centuries. While agriculture now accounts for less than 2% of the working population, an estimated 10% are employed in 'food to fork' businesses. A vast number of food producers and breweries, both small and very large, are based here.

Suffolk is understood as a county of opportunity. Transport and logistics firms are major employers along the A14 corridor and Felixstowe boasts the UK's largest container port.

Energy is set to become a significant growth area for Suffolk over the next decade with the arrival of the new Sizewell C nuclear plant. Thousands of new jobs and apprenticeships are expected to be created at the site and in supply chain companies. Advanced manufacturing, biotechnology, ICT and finance are also significant employers in the county.

Tourism brings well over £2bn to the local economy each year, with tens of thousands employed in the sector. Sport, through the horse racing industry around Newmarket and Ipswich Town Football Club, and arts and culture, including the annual Aldeburgh and Latitude festivals – play a significant part in making Suffolk a destination county.

The Church across the Diocese

Suffolk Diocese has 481 churches and 87 church schools, and we serve 684,000 people. We have 443 parishes and 111 benefices, giving us the highest percentage of multi-parish benefices of any Diocese. The number of Fresh Expressions has grown considerably in the last few years and currently stands at 187.

We have two innovative projects, nationally funded, each of which is seeking to see 1,500 new disciples by the end of 2025. 'Growing in God in the Countryside' is our rural project and 'Inspiring Ipswich' is centred on our county town.

'Inspiring Ipswich' has made over 22,000 new contacts, has started 45 new worshipping communities, seen over 1,700 people explore faith and has roughly 1,100 new disciples so far. To find out more go to inspiringipswich.org.

'Growing in God in the Countryside' is growing disciples through Lightwave group initiatives and supporting parish outreach in our rural areas. To find out more go to lightwave.community

The Diocesan Bishop lives in Ipswich which is also where the Diocesan Office is based. St Edmundsbury Cathedral is in Bury St Edmunds and is valued throughout the county for its wide range of services, including celebrating national and county occasions.

A great strength of the Diocese is the culture of collegiality among our Bishops, Archdeacons, Dean and Diocesan Secretary, who meet together weekly.

“ A healthy business community underpins positive social and individual outcomes and for 140 years Suffolk Chamber has been at the heart of advocating for the county’s dynamic, resilient and civic businesses. As such, we have an ongoing track record in working collaboratively with similarly-minded organisations, including the various faith communities in Suffolk, to address challenges and boost sustainable prosperity for all.”

JOHN DUGMORE
Chief Executive, Suffolk Chamber of Commerce

Schools and children

Our work with schools is a strength. There are almost 15,000 pupils in our 87 church schools, 85 primary and two secondary. The Bishop is a member of the Diocesan Multi Academy Trust (cofesuffolkmat.org) and chair of Debenham High School Academy Trust, a 'stand alone' academy trust but which is in the process of forming a MAT with some of its feeder primary schools.

Our schools play an important part in the life of the Diocese with our Diocesan Director of Education a member of Bishop's Staff. We work closely with other Dioceses, regionally and nationally and with Christian Aid. Our RE teaching resource, the Emmanuel Project is widely used across Suffolk and in other Dioceses. Our Diocesan education team promotes a Christian vision for schools in which all can grow and flourish, and we promote excellence in the teaching of RE and in Collective Worship.

Churches and schools working together

Stoke by Nayland Benefice and Stoke by Nayland CofE Primary School have joined forces to offer 'no form-filling' financial aid to support families in need. The partnership between church and school became aware some families needed additional funding – and the 'no form-filling' hardship fund was ideally placed to support them.

"The types of things funded are especially matched to the family need. This could be items such as a new washing machine, new glasses for children with particular sight needs or new shoes."

KELLY MCGRATH, Headteacher
Stoke by Nayland Primary School

Currently 93% of all church schools in the Diocese are judged Good or Outstanding by Ofsted at their last inspection.

Safeguarding

We have a Safeguarding team of five with backgrounds in local authority, policing and probation work. Their aim is to strengthen and integrate good safeguarding practice amongst all those working, volunteering and worshipping across the Diocese. The team offers advice and an extensive training programme, supports safer recruitment and adoption of the National Casework Management System.

Our team is supported and advised by the Diocesan Safeguarding Advisory Panel, which also provides guidance and quality assurance on policy and practice matters. They are in the process of implementing the National Church of England Safeguarding Standards and Quality Assurance Framework.

Over 55% of parishes have signed up to use our Parish Safeguarding Dashboard

Wellbeing

We recognise the importance of wellbeing for those in ministry and for those employed by the Board of Finance. We aim to promote a culture of health, wellbeing and self-care throughout the Diocese covering all aspects of emotional, physical and spiritual health.

We encourage all clergy to take time for renewal, refreshment and re-creation for their own wellbeing and for the sake of their families and ministry, including weekly rest days, up to 36 days holiday, five retreat days per year, sabbaticals and we also expect that clergy, licensed Lay Ministers and Lay Elders will set aside regular time for study, retreat and development in ministry, and undertake at least one significant piece of Continued Ministerial Development each year.

The Diocese has a strong network of well-trained lay and clergy Spiritual Directors and two centres for spiritual growth at 'The Place by the Water' and 'Lark Rise Retreats'. Lark Rise, founded by three Felixstowe clergy, run frequent Quiet and teaching days as well as organising both local and international pilgrimages. They have attracted world famous speakers such as John Bell and Malcolm Guite to the Diocese for teaching days on deepening personal spirituality.

Our Cathedral

St Edmundsbury Cathedral, in the heart of Bury St Edmunds, is the Mother Church of the Diocese. It is the seat of the Bishop and a place of pilgrimage, once part of the great Abbey of St Edmund. Open daily, it attracts visitors from across the world for worship, visits, events, exhibitions and prayer. Supported by a dedicated team of volunteers, the Cathedral offers a warm welcome to all.

The daily rhythm of services, often enhanced with music from choristers and the magnificent organ, is central to the Cathedral's life. The Cathedral offers a regular programme of parish pilgrimages, giving people from throughout the Diocese and beyond the chance to explore the Cathedral and enjoy Evensong.

As a focal point in the community the Cathedral hosts many special services and events, such as the annual Harvest celebration, college awards ceremonies and anniversary services for local charities and organisations.

A comprehensive programme of recitals and concerts runs throughout the year alongside a calendar of events, ranging from a Christmas market to art exhibitions. Children can explore the Cathedral with their own trails, or if they come as part of a school visit, The Learning Hub team offers themed, age-specific activities.

We are delighted that the National Lottery Heritage Fund recently awarded a £730,000 grant for the development of a new project, 'The Abbey of St Edmund: A Millennium of English History in West Suffolk'. This partnership with West Suffolk Council and English Heritage aims to conserve and protect the Abbey ruins, build a visitor centre and west cloister on the Cathedral site, add a network of footpaths around the Abbey and use digital technology to provide interpretation for visitors.

The Yard project: supporting young people

The Yard was an area of the Cathedral that was previously left overgrown, now it has been redeveloped as part of a social action project for young people. The project's aim is to create a dedicated place for young people in the Cathedral gardens, and a space they can make their own.

The Yard has been designed to offer a safe space where young people can come and spend time, learn new skills, meet new friends and improve their mental health, wellbeing and resilience. Activities include scrap-woodworking, eco crafts, firepit cooking and lots more.

The calm and peaceful location of the Yard, combined with small group sizes and a relaxed atmosphere that takes things at each young person's pace, has proved particularly positive for the young visitors. Feedback consistently shows that their wellbeing improves after time spent at The Yard and attendees are also seeing other benefits such as learning new skills, increased confidence and learning to make decisions.

TOGETHER WE ARE STEEPED IN RICH HISTORY, AND HAVE 457 LISTED CHURCH BUILDINGS

Diocese of St Edmundsbury and Ipswich SEPTEMBER 2024

BACK TO CONTENTS

We are a highly relational Diocese. We encourage team working and collegiality in everything we do, whether Fresh Expressions or traditional town and village churches, church plants or revitalisation projects. We also rejoice in many fruitful relationships with schools, chaplaincies and other partnerships.

University and colleges

We have one university, the University of Suffolk located in Ipswich, Suffolk New College is also in Ipswich, with additional further education colleges including West Suffolk College in Bury St Edmunds, Otley College and Suffolk Rural.

Chaplains and chaplaincy

Our statutory, voluntary and charitable agencies expect and welcome the Church to engage with them in tackling the issues facing the people of Suffolk. This is especially true in the area of chaplaincy.

We have chaplains serving a number of sectors in our communities including: police, hospitals, hospices, schools and further education colleges, agriculture, youth uniform groups, deaf chaplaincy, prison (there are three prisons in the Diocese at Warren Hill, Hollesley Bay and Highpoint), British Legion, Armed Forces, Sizewell C and Felixstowe Port.

“ We are proud to serve all communities in Suffolk, and do so with professionalism, courage and compassion, supporting the most vulnerable and engaging with others to build trust and confidence. The support of our partners, including the Church, is integral in providing a service that maximises safety across the county whilst treating people with fairness and delivering justice.”

CHIEF CONSTABLE RACHEL KEARTON

A passion for students

“ Life as a University Chaplain is one of constant change. Each year I reach out to 2,000 new students and staff (plus the 5,000 others still at the Uni) through Fresher’s Fairs, Welcome Meals, Interfaith events, lectures, prayer groups, Bible studies, social events, 1 to 1 conversations, public acts of worship and Remembrance, Christmas Carols... I could go on! Why do I do it? What does it achieve?

Chaplains are so often the face of the Church that people see in their workplace. I get to befriend those of faith and those of no faith simply by being present, as I initiate conversations, as I offer hospitality to all without question. As a result, a very varied cross-section of those at the University come to talk with me. Sometimes I have a clear opportunity to share my own faith journey; sometimes I act as a guide, pointing to all the great churches across the town. At times I pray with those who do not yet know God... helping them to see that faith is a genuine option.”

THE REVD LINDA PEPPER
Chaplain at the University of Suffolk

Other churches and Christian Networks

We aim to work ecumenically with the breadth of Christian denominations and networks. We have an Ecumenical Advisor and many of our churches are active in local Churches Together networks. These are especially strong in Ipswich through Together for Ipswich providing a communication platform between the civic authorities, particularly the Local Authority, and Christian churches, charities and people in Ipswich. This enables a better understanding of how local policy impacts on ordinary people, and a way to explore shared initiatives and partner effectively.

Dioceses across the East

Our relationships extend to broadening and working collaboratively across the Eastern region of Dioceses, which includes the Dioceses of Chelmsford, Ely, Norwich, Peterborough and St Albans. This is especially bearing fruit in the areas of schools, pastoral supervision as part of wellbeing and in working together on the Net Zero Carbon plans and tackling climate change as a region.

“ We recognise that the process of welcoming and supporting asylum seekers and refugees to settle in the UK is best achieved when voluntary, community, faith and statutory agencies work together. The process is different for different people, some needing a lot of support whilst others more able to manage with little support. The common need however for all is that the environment they arrive into is welcoming and understanding of their needs, cultural differences and aspirations for the future.

We are greatly appreciative of the role of the many different agencies in Suffolk and although we operate on a strictly non-religious, non-party political basis, treating all our clients with the same levels of dignity and respect, we recognise the important role of the Church in forming part of the network of support. We are very grateful to the churches in Suffolk who raise funds and awareness, organise services for different groups and help with sourcing practical items (toys and sewing machines recently) for our clients.”

Partner Dioceses in Tanzania

The Diocese has a strong and flourishing link with the Diocese of Kagera, and more recently, with the Dioceses of Lweru and Biharamulo, in north-west Tanzania, covering territory bordered by Uganda in the north, Rwanda in the west and Lake Victoria in the east. The rich relationship is rooted in mutual prayer, friendship, learning and support. Visits by the bishops, clergy and laity happen regularly in both directions and continue to be a source of encouragement and creativity for all involved. The Diocese also has links with Belgium and Germany.

We have a prayerful and active concern for the events, needs and current landscape in these areas and the wider world, via our World Mission Group.

Other faith groups

Suffolk is more diverse than people realise, not least when it comes to other faiths.

Though most established faith communities are based in Ipswich, groups do gather in towns such as Bury St Edmunds and Newmarket. After Christianity, the largest faith in Suffolk is Islam, with three mosques in Ipswich and one in Newmarket. Ipswich is also home to a Hindu Samaj, a Sikh Gurdwara, a Buddhist centre, and a Liberal Jewish community.

Interfaith relations, though slightly strained following events in the Middle East, remain strong. They operate both locally and through our Diocesan Interfaith Advisor, the Revd Tom Mumford.

Christians from across the county are heading to Africa

Christians from across the county headed to Africa, enhancing our relationship with our link Diocese in Kagera. On the two-week trip, church leaders, including several curates, linked up with those struggling with the effects of climate change, rising prices and poor infrastructure - many homes do not even have running water or electricity. They were based in Kagera in Tanzania, East Africa, where most roads are dirt tracks and the average life expectancy is under 70 years.

The visit provided insights into life in communities abroad where people of faith not only survive at the sharp end of climate change but demonstrate enthusiasm and joy.

The Church community were curious about life in Suffolk and so glad that we had come to visit them. One person said that it strengthened the bonds of love between our two Dioceses. They also demonstrated how the motorbikes we had sponsored had been put to such good use. The Group sang the hymn How Great Thou Art, them in Swahili and us in English. Again, it cemented again the strong links between us.

The group visited many churches; the Kagera Hospital with gifts of medication, reading glasses and bandages; primary and secondary schools; farms communities, as well as the Kagera Christian Training College, and everywhere they went they shared food, fellowship and worship.

GMH and UKME

We are committed to bringing about the necessary changes highlighted by the Archbishops' Anti-Racism Taskforce to combat racism in all its forms and build a better future for the Church in Suffolk.

The Diocesan Racial Justice Working Group, chaired by the Bishop of Dunwich and resourced by the Diocesan Racial Justice Officer, is leading on implementing a racial justice policy which was approved by Bishop's Council in July 2024. Work has begun to fully implement our policy to take the practical steps to tackle racism and improve diversity, including improving the diversity of participation in church life, education, training and mentoring and in addressing history and memory.

Disability and inclusion

Our Diocese seeks to be a place where all people can belong as individual unique and valued followers of Jesus Christ. We celebrate the inclusion, contribution and ministry of disabled people, acknowledging that the church community is only complete when all are welcome.

We aim to support all congregations to ensure that our buildings, activities and services are welcoming and accessible for disabled people through the work of the Disability and Inclusion group. This group has created resources promoting access and inclusion. A member of the group also has a seat on the DAC to ensure all faculties meet the needs of disabled people.

“ Suffolk is an increasingly diverse place when it comes to both faith and race. Ipswich has had a vibrant Caribbean and Indian population since the 1950s but is now far more racially, linguistically and ethnically mixed; the range of faiths represented in Ipswich, and more widely across Suffolk has grown. This includes diverse Christian communities.

The Church has an important part to play in supporting the inclusion, and indeed cohesion, of our richly varied communities. We have important shared values, human values and values we bring from our diverse cultures and faiths which should help to unite us and help us find common ground.

A willingness to listen and learn from our experiences will provide a strong basis for collaboration.”

Suffolk Centre of Mission

Suffolk Centre of Mission offers a Diocese-wide focus on Evangelism and Pioneering in partnership with Church Army. It works to support parish churches and Fresh Expressions with hands-on mission and evangelism as well as training via the Envoy programme.

Our three team members are based in local communities developing mission there while also encouraging others to step out into the community to share God's love in creative, contextually relevant ways. To find out more go to churcharmy.org/mission/suffolk/

“ Envoy understands that evangelism is a gift which flows from the heart of a faith lived well and expressed uniquely by each person in a way that is right for them and their context. Discovering and releasing that unique gift for each person is central to an Envoy Community.”

co-leader of Pilgrims Together

Becoming an Evangelist on The Vocations Pathway

“ Being an Evangelist is really part of who I am. My faith is an integral part of me. I believe that everything I do shines with the light of Christ. I love speaking about faith to people – but I do ‘read the room’ first! If people can see that I am a genuine, caring, open person then they are much more likely to trust and open up to me when they feel they want to. And I hope I make a difference!

I have been able to create Advent and Lent bags for project where we give bags with readings, a short reflection and activity for each week of Lent or Advent to all our congregation, encouraging them to share the bags with friends and family. We take the bags to our toddler group where many of the families who come along don't attend church, we also give them to our school who have used them in their RE lessons. I have trialled litter picks in our parish, which I hope will become more regular later on this year. I hope that alongside other more parish and community based (rather than church based) activities we will be able to spread God's love to those in our local community.

I feel that I help build people's confidence in their faith, and that they feel confident to tell people that they are a Christian, I ask questions about faith and ask people to serve our church using the gifts that God has given them. I want to be able to share mine and others gifts with our community and build networks of trust and compassion all underpinned with God's love for all of us.”

TOGETHER WE ARE SUPPORTING OUR COMMUNITIES

In 2023, the total Diocesan income excluding project income was £9,824,000. Our total expenditure was £9,859,000.

Where does our money come from?

Every £10 we receive is made up as follows:

How do we spend the money we receive?

Every £10 we receive is spent as follows:

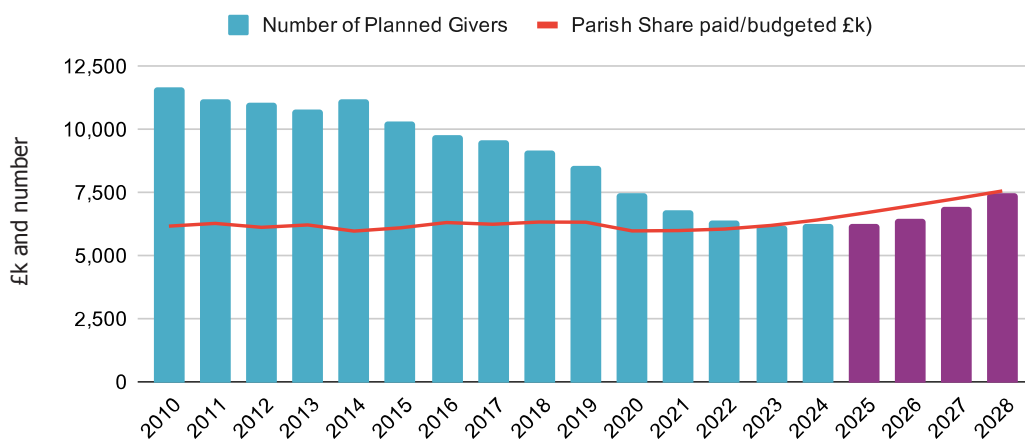

The annual budget for the Diocese is £10m, and we depend on Parish Share to raise circa 80% of this sum. In 2018, after measures to reduce costs and encourage giving, we broke even for the first time in many years. Whilst the pandemic set us back, with incredible generosity from parishes, we are £0.1m below the pre-pandemic level of Parish Share received. With rising costs, the gap between the Parish Share request and the actual receipts has widened to 85%. We recognise that financial conditions remain challenging for parishes and the DBF, but also that the collection rate must improve, if we are to pay for the ministry we require, and to improve the overall financial position.

In 2023 we have just under 6,500 weekly givers with the average weekly gift of regular givers being £13.51 per person per week, and for the 1,906 givers from 239 parishes in the parish giving scheme the average weekly gift was £15.56 excluding gift aid. Whilst this is encouraging, the pace of engagement with PGS has slowed in the last couple of years. We remain very grateful and thankful for the many examples of sacrificial generosity in giving finances, time and skills across Suffolk but there is still the potential and need to go further.

Our Growing in God strategy and ongoing ministry bid to the Strategic Mission and Ministry Investment Board (SMMIB) directly address our financial and resourcing challenges with the aim to achieve financial balance and sustainability by 2028/29, with additional income streams contributing to the overall costs, addressing the challenges of managing and maintaining church and school buildings as well as our clergy housing, and to increase the number of Planned Givers and broadening the giving base, as highlighted in the graphs below.

Geographical

The Diocese of St Edmundsbury and Ipswich is largely rural but includes the county town of Ipswich and Bury St Edmunds situated to the west.

The Diocese covers the majority of the Suffolk, except for Lowestoft in the northeast, and includes one parish in the county of Essex. The county consists mostly of smaller market towns and villages.

The road network is made up of the A14 which runs from Felixstowe in the east, south of Ipswich and towards the Midlands past Stowmarket and Bury St Edmunds. The A140 is the main road from Suffolk to Norfolk, while the A12 (the main route to London and the M25) runs from the south of the county, around Ipswich, and towards the east coast to Lowestoft.

The Norwich to London Liverpool Street railway line passes through the county and provides access to the capital from Ipswich in under one hour.

Roughly half of the population of the Diocese lives in the following areas:

Urban Area	Population
Ipswich	169,000
Bury St Edmunds	41,000
Felixstowe	31,000
Haverhill	27,000
Stowmarket	24,000
Newmarket	21,000

Age & Health Profile

The county has an aging profile - nearly 1 in 4 people are aged 65 and over. It is estimated the ratio will change to 1 in 3 people aged over 65 in 20 years' time.

Population by broad age group for Suffolk (2021)

The projected figures suggest that the percentage of children and young people will decline by 2% and those aged 16-64 will decrease by 5%.

Age	2020	2043	Variance
Aged 0-15	18%	16%	-2%
Aged 16-64	58%	53%	-5%
Aged 65+	24%	31%	7%

A combination of an increased but ageing population will have implications for health, general well-being and the economy. Based on contemporary mortality rates it is estimated that life expectancy is slightly higher than the average for England.

Life expectancy by Gender	Suffolk	England
Life expectancy at birth - Female - All ages	83.7	83.2
Life expectancy at birth - Male - All ages	80.5	79.3

It is estimated that the percentage of households in fuel poverty for Suffolk was 12% (2022) - slightly lower than the estimate of 13% in England.

There is a strong link between qualifications attained and earnings. 6.7% of the population have no formal qualifications - slightly higher than the national average. Although 88.4% have qualifications at NVQ1+ level (the equivalent of three to four GCSEs at grades D-E) slightly better than the national average, this worsens at NVQ2+ and NVQ3+ levels.

The number of people with degrees (NVQ4+) in Suffolk is 36.5% which is 6.7% less than the national average.

Employment

Suffolk’s employment rate is consistently higher than for Great Britain, and the local unemployment rate is lower than the national level.

While for many Suffolk is an attractive place to live, the data suggests that workers choose to live in the county but commute out for the higher salaries which are not available locally. Gross weekly pay is lower in Suffolk than compared to Great Britain as a whole. In 2022, people who worked full-time in Suffolk earned £40 per week less than the national average. Suffolk residents are also more likely to have no formal qualifications.

The largely rural nature of the county results in longer commuting distances than the national average.

55% of the population in Suffolk rely on travelling to work by driving a car or van – this figure is 10% higher than the national average.

The Suffolk versus England column below shows how employment rates within the county are skewed to business administration, manufacturing and agricultural when compared to the national averages. It also demonstrates the relative lack of higher salaries within professional, scientific and technical roles.

Crime

Suffolk’s crime rates are consistently lower than the comparable data for the East of England (Bedfordshire, Cambridgeshire, Essex, Hertfordshire, Norfolk and Suffolk) which includes theft, burglary, criminal damage and violence. The average rates for all crime show that recorded levels of crime have plateaued.
