First hip-hop album on YouTube

The Revd Kiran Lotay, 36, of Triangle Church on Triangle Estate, Ipswich, has been interested in music and spoken word poetry since he was young, and already has two self-released EPs and a mixtape published on his YouTube channel. Following a £1,500 grant from the Diocesan Growth Fund, Kiran has recorded a new hip-hop album. The funding enabled Kiran to pay for the licensing and recording of the album. Kiran says "The studio sessions were a fantastic success in that I was able to work with the engineer at South Street studios effectively to produce the album".

Kiran, who grew up in Wembley in London, said he wanted his new album "Recovery" to open conversations about the issues young people face. "One of the things I love most about poetry and rap music is how you can compress meaning and express complex ideas in just one or two lines," he said. "The music I make looks to speak to the experience of the young people I'm working with, as well as my own journey and spirituality. The album covers topics including trauma, healing, spiritual growth and how the local community can help support people through it. I want people to be able to engage with my music and for it to help people talk about things they find difficult to talk about."
